

WEBINAR ON COVID-19 AND ITS IMPLICATIONS FOR SUPPLY CHAIN MANAGEMENT

The outbreak of the Covid-19 has major implications for supply chain management. The impact of supply chains can be seen in:

- Government restrictions amid to mitigate the spread of the virus,
- Limited access to employees due to quarantine and potential loss of jobs,
- Limited operating hours and goods are not being produced to full capacity,
- Suppliers of customised products are at risk of losing market shares,
- Closure of businesses or manufacturing slowdowns and
- Limited access to logistics movements and financial implications.

AISCR invites you for a webinar to better understand the profound impact of Covid-19 on supply chains in South Africa and the continent. The webinar aims to assist supply chain practitioners develop mitigating strategies during this trying time and a blueprint for effective post Covid-19 supply chains.
